Cast & crewUser reviewsTriviaPeaceful farmer Benjamin Martin is driven to lead the Colonial Militia during the American Revolution when a sadistic British officer murders his son.1.2KUser reviews173Critic reviewsMetascore Published: 20:47 BST, 29 August 2022 | Updated: 21:17 BST, 29 August 2022 Birmingham City's video to announce their loan signing of highly-rated Manchester United midfielder Hannibal Mejbri on loan has left some fans confused.The video posted on Twitter is inspired by a scene from the 1991 film 'Silence of the Lambs', in which fictitious villain Hannibal Lecter helps FBI agent Clarice Starling catch a serial killer from a high-security prison.But due to the film being over three decades old, many fans are not familiar with the reference the club were trying to make by super-imposing the midfielder over the villain. Hannibal was super-imposed into the film Silence of the Lambs in his announcement videoFans were then left questioning why the midfielder appeared to be a prison cell, with one Twitter user, @LaunchburyJake, saying: 'Why is he in jail?' Another, @Sheyifunmi, said: 'What kind of announcement is this? Was he in prison before?' Some football fans were not keen on the announcement video of Hannibal to Birmingham CityWhereas, fans who understood the reference were happy to praise the club for the creative video.Twitter user @Olivresuana said: '@BCFC Whoever made this deserves a massive raise.'Another fan joined in on the fun and posted a picture waiting outside the prison cell for the player's autograph. And another compared it to similar videos put out by Burnley, @bcfcxian said: '@BCFC We went full burnley on that one and I'm all up for it.' Some fans however spoke about how the move will pan out for the Manchester United academy star suggesting that he is ready to play in the Premier League now, rather than the Championship.Twitter account and Manchester United supporter, @readthesize said: 'Hannibal is good enough for the prem now imo. Just needs more games. I hate us loaning out our top talent to championship teams. Different mentality there.' Hannibal could play his first game for Birmingham City on Tuesday against Norwich CityAnother Twitter user, @zdpj, tweeted: 'It's criminal that he's in the championship.'Whereas one Birmingham fan who rates the midfielder highly is already wanting the club to keep him permanently.@JameSimme tweeted: 'Keep him locked up. Don't let him leave'. Looking to feast your eyes on 'Forrest Gump' on your TV or mobile device at home? While running to meet Pete and Lana at The Talon, Clark suddenly stops on the road, and the drunken driver, journalist Perry White, crashes into a pole trying to avoid him. Perry (Clark's future boss and editor of the Daily Planet) is an alcoholic ex-reporter from the tabloid TV show 'X-Styles', whom he blames Lionel Luther for his career downfall, Perry blackmails the Kents by threatening to sue them for his car accident, and gets Clark to transport him around Smallville for a couple of days because Perry is in town writing an article about the 1989 meteor shower and starts to suspect Clark's abilities. Meanwhile, the upset Lex has a psychoanalysis evaluation on him due to imposition of the insurance company to Luthor Corp.
